F.D.R. Asks Arms for 2 Million Men

Coming Message Will Carry Request for 5 Billions More Plus Big Army

To Expand Plants New Program Includes Greater Facilities for Munitions Making

Washington, July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt's coming request for a $5,000,000,000 defense fund was reported reliably today to authorize arms for a second million men.

The new program also contemplates additional facilities for making munitions, so that, in an emergency, full equipment for even larger land forces could be turned out in relatively short order.

A message setting forth the President's recommendations is expected to go to Congress by the middle of the week.

Talk of the proposed fund, much the largest of its kind in peacetime, gave impetus to demands for another billion-dollar-a-year increase in taxes to meet defense costs. Senator George (D-Ga.) predicted the tax boost would be linked with the request for $4,000,000,000 for the army and $1,000,000,000 for the navy.

In regular and supplemental appropriations voted since the European war explosion in May, Congress already has authorized complete arms and equipment for 500,000 soldiers and reserves of "critical weapons" for an additional 500,000 men.

Second Million Men
The newest preparedness move is expected to make ready for a second million men such arms as rifles, artillery, ammunition and tanks which could not be produced quickly in an emergency.

Some of these munitions presumably would be required even in peacetime should compulsory military training be undertaken. Such a program for training millions of men has been placed on the "must" list by Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate military committee.

Some lawmakers said a type of selection draft was needed because voluntary enlistments had failed to keep up with increases in the army and navy already approved by Congress.

They suggested that spokesmen for the war and navy departments may present President Roosevelt's ideas on citizen training when they testify before Sheppard's committee.

A billion-dollar string of munitions plants, chiefly for the manufacture of guns, ammunition and planes, figures prominently in the latest preparedness plans. More than $244,000,000 already has been provided for munitions plants, most of which would be privately operated, and further sums are available at the President's discretion.

On the home defense front, it was learned that governors of the 48 states soon may be invited to a conference at the justice department.

Department officials, who have been working quietly with the representatives of several governors, disclosed that the meeting, probably August 5 and 6, would take up cooperation among the states on:

- General defense activities.
- Alien propaganda.
- Civil rights, particularly protection against mob violence.
- Alien registration, especially education of the foreign-born to their duties under the new law.
- Coordination between the states and the federal government in defense measures to avoid conflict.

Protests Legislation

Washington, July 8 (AP)—Wilhelm Kunze, national leader of the German-American Bund, protested today against proposed legislation requiring registration of foreign-controlled organizations on the grounds that it would force the Bund out of existence. Although denying vigorously that his organization was controlled by Nazi Germany or that it had any secret purpose to overthrow the United States government, Kunze held a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that no one would dare be an officer of the Bund if the bill were enacted.

Appeal Is Made

New York, July 8 (AP)—Mayor LaGuardia today made a personal appeal to detectives to hunt down the perpetrators of the Fourth of July bombing at the New York World's Fair. He made the plea at the funeral of Joseph F. Lynch, one of the two detective victims of the blast. Present were 300,000. "I want you fellows to go out and give all your extra time to this serious thing," the mayor said. "Do everything possible to break this case."

Rockefeller Dies

Cortland, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—Alfred C. Rockefeller, 83, of Dryden, son of the late John D. Rockefeller, died here last night.

Dr. Crowley Resigns As School Physician

Dr. Thomas F. Crowley, who for several years has been school medical supervisor of the public schools of Kingston, resigned that position at the close of the present school year in order to devote full time to his private medical practice. No successor has been named. The duties of school doctor have been increased over the past few years and recently a new law enacted, which made it necessary to extend the services of school doctor to parochial schools of the city, thus increasing greatly the work and making it necessary to put the school doctor on a full time basis. This leaves but little time for private practice.

Willkie to Visit Capital for Talk About Campaign

'Hands-off Europe' Policy to Be Urged by Some Congressmen; G.O.P. Dinner Tonight

Washington, July 8 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie's first visit to Washington as the Republican Presidential nominee provided an opportunity today for several Congressmen to urge that his campaign be shaped around a "hands-off-Europe" foreign policy. Legislators who have been critical of the administration's program to aid the allies said they would urge Willkie to take a firm "non-intervention" stand in his political speeches. Among those who expressed the desire to confer with him after his arrival by plane in mid-afternoon were Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich.), Nye (R-ND) and Thomas (R-Idaho). All belong to the Senate group which has insisted that the Roosevelt administration is endangering this country's peace in its efforts to help Great Britain.

Willkie's object in coming here was to confer for the first time with Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Vice Presidential nominee. They will be guests tonight at an informal dinner to which all Republican members of Congress have been invited. The dinner was arranged by a committee headed by Rep. Horton (R-Wyo.).

The Republican campaign set-up may be completed at conference tonight, with a decision as to whether one man or a three-member group will direct it. McNary told reporters he had no plans for Willkie's visit other than to discuss any subjects that the Presidential nominee might bring up.

Willkie-Dewey Conclave

New York, July 8 (AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie met for the first time today and discussed Republican campaign plans as the Presidential nominee hurried through a round of conferences before leaving for Washington. Among other callers were Henry P. Fletcher, counsel for the Republican national committee, and F. Trubee Davison, chairman of the United Republican Finance Committee for metropolitan New York. Willkie planned to leave for Washington at 1 p. m.

President Shares His Third Term Intentions; Analysts Still Say Roosevelt Could Be Drafted

Washington, July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt shared with James A. Farley today the secret of his third term intentions—but neither would reveal the chief executive's answer to the most baffling political question in a decade. The rest of the nation may be left in the lurch when the third term puzzle is solved—and if the Democratic national convention insists on drafting Mr. Roosevelt. Political analysts suggested that since Mr. Roosevelt had let the third term movement go along until a week before the convention without lifting a finger either to check or increase its momentum he would be unlikely to turn down renomination if it were offered in the form of a call to service during a time of international crisis and efforts to plug in gaps in America's defenses. But any announcement on the (Continued on Page Five)

New Government Under Petain Is Rumored at Vichy

LeBrun to Resign, Petain to Assume Leadership as Executive; His Aides Are Named

Geneva, July 8 (AP)—The censored press of unoccupied France carried reports today that Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's government was "only transitory" and would make way for a new regime with Petain as "chief of staff" like Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain.

A dispatch from Vichy to Le Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble forecast the resignation of French President Albert LeBrun and his replacement by Petain who, it said, would "only accept the title of executive power."

A triumvirate of former Premier Pierre Laval, General Maxime Weygand and Adrien Marquet, former minister of labor and mayor of Bordeaux, would dominate the government under Petain's titular direction, this report said.

Peta's present ministry, it added, "seems to be making a last concession to dying rights" by an elaborate legislative procedure carried out by a picked group of senators and deputies at Vichy.

These plans, the writer emphasized, are only forecasts but the fact that they were permitted to appear in the strictly controlled press indicated that they may be based on known plans of the Vichy leaders.

Absolute Powers

Reports from France during the past few days were interpreted today to indicate that by Wednesday or Thursday the Parliament, meeting at Vichy, will have given the government of Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain powers almost as absolute as those wielded by the heads of the totalitarian states which defeated France.

Travelers from portions of the country unoccupied by German troops describe the French public and many of its republican leaders as "dazed by defeat" and scarcely interested in the proceedings at Vichy.

A dispatch from Vichy said the French press described the new constitution to be drafted for France as "corporative," a term Fascists apply to the Italian government, and quoted Vice-Premier Pierre Laval as declaring it would be permanent rather than temporary.

Reports by persons present at government meetings at Bordeaux and Vichy describe Petain, who was France's first ambassador to the Spanish Nationalist government, as "tremendously impressed" by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's plans for Spain.

They said Petain, when discussing Franco's post-war problems with his aides, frequently used examples from the Spanish reconstruction after the civil war, almost always adding: "But we must have his (Franco's) power."

These reports added that Jose Felix Lequerica, Spanish ambassador to France, recently gave the marshal a full report on Franco's reconstruction plans and post-war reconstruction.

Port Ewen Youngsters Get New Playground

A large piece of land in Port Ewen was purchased last week by Dr. G. W. Ross, a resident of the village, and presented to the village for the purpose of making a playground. Plans are already taking form for various ways of securing funds to purchase necessary equipment. It didn't take these boys long to take advantage of a portion of the large lot. In the bottom photo we find Joe O'Reilly and P. J. "Buddy" Beichert choosing sides for the baseball game.

Somervell Orders Airport Murals Be Burned as 'Red'

W. P. A. Project Paintings Took Three Years for Completion; Soviet Taint Is Cited

New York, July 8 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Brehon B. Somervell, New York WPA administrator, today ordered three of four murals recently hung in the Administration Building at Floyd Bennett Field burned, declaring they were "obviously Communist murals."

The murals, which required more than three years to complete, were a WPA federal art project.

Colonel Somervell's action followed protests by several groups who asserted the murals showed the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk in Russian peasant costumes; a red statue of Joseph Stalin with a fallen aviator at his feet; a red star instead of the correct white star insignia on a painting of the U. S. naval reserve hangar at the field, and a painting of the Soviet plane which flew from Moscow to California several years ago.

The fourth mural, depicting the history of flying, will not be destroyed, Somervell ruling it was free of propaganda taint.

One artist who assisted in painting the murals has already been discharged from WPA, he said, for refusal to sign an affidavit that he was not a member of the Communist party or of the Nazi Bund.

Somervell named him as August Henkle, 59, who had been on the arts project since February 24, 1936, and said he was checking the history of the mural project and that any official or artist who took part in the work should be dropped from WPA.

Mexican Riots Result In 50 to 100 Killings; Rivals Claim Victory

Bullets Wound 2 American Students In Mexican Clash

Mexico City, July 8 (AP)—Riotous disorders which accompanied Mexico's presidential elections yesterday were estimated today to have taken between 50 and 100 lives and reports of widespread irregularities threatened to complicate the task of determining the outcome of the voting.

An unofficial count showed at least 30 persons dead in Mexico City alone, while scores—perhaps hundreds—were reported wounded during pitched battles which surged through the streets of the capital.

Another youth from the United States was slightly wounded, while two others narrowly escaped injury.

Those seriously hurt were Edward J. Mallen, Jr., of Franni, Wyoming, and Leonard Durso, (Continued on Page 12)

Roosevelt Is Aligned With Hull in Contending Real Monroe Doctrine Is Purely American Statute

Washington, July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt was aligned today with Secretary of State Hull in contending that there is a difference between "Monroe Doctrines" under the name only and "the true Monroe Doctrine as we know it and have it."

Following German and Japanese discussion of "a Monroe Doctrine for Europe" and "a Monroe Doctrine for Asia," Stephen Early, White House secretary, said at Hyde Park yesterday: "There hasn't been any sign or evidence of a real or true Monroe Doctrine in other hemispheres than our own yet."

Secretary Hull declared on Friday that the Monroe Doctrine does not resemble policies in other areas which, he said, though alleged to be similar, "would in reality seem to be only the pretext for the carrying of conquest by the sword."

The President suggested Saturday night that European and Asiatic nations—each as a group—use the Monroe principle in disposing of the possessions of conquered nations.

The President's views were relayed to reporters by Early after a telephone conference with Hull. (Continued on Page 14)

Walter Coutant, 11 Shot by Brother While Out Hunting

Highland Boy Is Taken to Vassar Hospital; Boys Were on Way to Hunt for Woodchucks

Walter Coutant, 11 years old, son of Albert Coutant of Blue Point road, two miles south of Highland, was accidentally shot in the mouth by Ralph Coutant, 15-year-old brother, Sunday noon. The boy was treated by Dr. Lockwood of Highland and taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, where his condition was termed "good" today.

Sergeant E. J. Hulse and Trooper James Benson made an investigation and pronounced the shooting accidental. The two boys had been in the habit of using a .22 calibre rifle to shoot woodchucks and copperhead snakes which infest the father's farm.

Sunday shortly after noon they started out to hunt woodchucks. Ralph with the gun went out one door and Walter followed from another door. As the boys met outside the gun was accidentally discharged and the bullet struck Walter in the mouth. A couple of (Continued on Page Three)

Real Drive Upon Isle Is Masked

Only Hitler Holds Power to Declare New Step Against Britain; Has Conference

Stations Are Quiet

German Radio Stations Are Silent, Indicating Air Raid

(By the Associated Press)

German air raiders dropped tons of incendiary, explosive and time-fuse bombs in widespread new attacks on Britain today, but still masked the scene of the projected invasion chosen by Adolf Hitler.

The raids, carrying on an almost incessant "strafing" of cities and military objectives that begun on June 18, struck at coastal towns.

An official communique reported "some damage and a few casualties" but said two Nazi bombers were shot down by Royal Air Force fighters.

So far Nazi bombing attacks on Britain have been widely scattered and reports from Berlin said even men usually in the know were unable to say when Hitler would give the word for the next phase of the war.

Hitler and Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano conferred yesterday at a meeting which the authoritative Fascist Editor Virginio Gayda said "will mean a new stretch on the combative, constructive road of new associated nations."

Plans Discussed

One report from Rome said Hitler and Ciano, due to meet again Wednesday, discussed plans for an offensive against England, with Ireland as the first objective.

The British-German war for air supremacy went ahead at a deadly pace.

British fighters brought down at least seven of the foe; at least five British persons were killed on the ground. Three British fighters were lost.

Germany's big broadcasting stations at Bremen and Hamburg went silent early today, which usually indicates British air raiders are nearby.

Planes identified as belonging to Britain's fallen ally—France—raided Gibraltar again Sunday and the Italian air force was active in Africa and over Malta.

The French announced that two of their air squadrons had been reformed and joined the Axis in attacks on Gibraltar.

The British also were busy with air and land blows against Sicily and Italian African possessions.

Announcing over the week-end demobilization of French naval forces at Alexandria, Egypt, the British said they had sunk two Italian supply ships, forced two large transports aground, left other ships in difficulties, and sank either an Italian destroyer or submarine. A British submarine off Norway was reported to have torpedoed five German supply ships.

The Germans reported two British destroyers were bombed so heavily in the North Sea that they were total losses and that a British cruiser was damaged. Other successes claimed were the sinking of a submarine and two small naval vessels.

The British said that aerial minelaying in the Baltic and elsewhere had robbed German ships of any safe passages.

Diplomatic speculation centered meanwhile around Sunday conference in Berlin between Adolf Hitler and Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano. A correspondent for Stefani, Italian news agency, said "complete agreement" had been reached on development of the war and on construction of a "new Europe."

Canadians Bomb 'Sub'

Passengers reaching New York on the British liner Scythia said they heard in Halifax, Nova Scotia, that a Canadian bomber had destroyed one of two German submarines sighted off that port.

The French removed their forces from the Netherlands island of Aruba, off the South American coast, and headed for Martinique, where British warships have been reported on patrol.

In southeast Europe, Turkey appeared as the next target of Russia's move to gain control of the Black Sea.

The Soviet ambassador, Alexei Terentiev, conferred with Franz Von Papen, German envoy to Tur-

FOUND: A Man Who Likes to Bother, Provided He Collects On It

Indianapolis—Why Bother, Inc., makes money by doing just that for customers who don't want to. Richard T. Miskimen, 29 president, secretary-treasurer and all the vice presidents, calls the new business a "thoroughly diversified personal service."

His prospectus, on the kind of fine bond paper ordinarily reserved for wedding invitations, tells just how diversified. Why Bother offers, for a price, to:

Shop, mail Christmas cards, sit up with baby, put the cat out or mow the grass;

Answer the telephone, remind you of a luncheon date, meet a train or hold your place in line outside a crowded moving picture theatre;

Get you a servant, an errand boy, a ticket to a show, a ticket to Oshkosh, publicity, flowers or a drink; and

Plan a party or write you a speech.

"We will be happy to do, and will do," the letter sweepingly sums up, "anything for you at any time."

Miskimen, a University of Illinois man and an ex-newspaper reporter, says his friends forced him into business.

"I got tired of doing things for people and not getting paid for it," he explains. He has a one-room office, a full-time stenographer, an errand boy, three unemployed college men and some 20 servants on call.

Miskimen's biggest job was rubbing out a woodpecker that was waking up a suburban neighborhood every daybreak. A man with a shotgun went out three mornings before he killed the bird. The fee was $2.

How does he like his work? "I'm having a riot!" Miskimen chortles.

Detroit—Receiving hospital attaches are still seeking the key to this mystery.

A woman telephoned to report in a quavering voice that she had swallowed a key and what should she do about it. Drive to the hospital as quickly as possible, a physician advised.

"But I can't do that," came the reply. "It was the key to my automobile."

Musical Cache

Los Angeles—O. W. Haines, a piano tuner observing his 61st birthday, estimated he had sweetened more than 6,000,000 sour notes. He added:

"I have found in pianos everything from love letters to false teeth, from salt shakers to $500 in $20 gold pieces."

Treated for a sprained back, Mrs. Kronnick, 21, told hospital attendants she had forgot the technique of dismounting at the foot of the stairs.

F. C. C. Tackles Big Job of Tracking Author of Hoax

Washington, July 8 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission, tackled today, as an "exceedingly difficult task," the job of running down the author of a false radio message saying that the United States destroyer Barry had been "hit by German submarine."

Chairman James L. Fly said the commission was making extensive investigation through its monitor stations in cooperation with the Navy and Mackay radio, which picked up the mysterious message yesterday.

"It is a puzzling case," Fly said. "We cannot monitor every wave length all the time. When a message comes and goes on an unsuspected wave length, there you are."

An SOS in the Barry's name was picked up by Mackay radio Sunday, and caused two hours' anxiety in government quarters before the Navy was able to announce:

"The Navy has received a communication directly from the Barry and she is not in distress. She is peacefully at anchor."

The Navy declined to give out her position.

The sole clue for air-wave detectives of the Navy and the communications commission was a wave-length. The message picked up by Mackay was transmitted on 55 meters—a radio band assigned, not to the Barry, but to the transatlantic clipper planes. The erroneous message gave the ship's position as 400 miles off the Spanish coast.

Three Injured In Local Crash

Accident Occurs Saturday on Manor Avenue

Three people were injured, but not seriously, in an auto accident on Manor avenue on Saturday, according to a report made to the police department.

The injured were Lewis Shaw of Box 665, Kingston, driver of the truck, and Helen Edwards, 35, of New York, and William Norton, 16, 21 Abbey street. Shaw suffered an injured shoulder; the woman a back injury, while the youth was cut on the forehead and suffered an injured hand.

According to the police report the truck was being turned around in the street when it was struck by a car driven by Christopher Dauner of 209 Foxhall avenue.

Both machines were damaged. This morning shortly after 5 o'clock there was a crash between two cars at the intersection of Elmendorf street and Tremper avenue in which both machines were damaged but no personal injuries were reported. Bert Helbron of 24 First avenue was driving one of the Beatty Farm trucks east on Elmendorf street and at the intersection of Tremper avenue was in collision with an auto of Don Van Etten of Samsonville.

Three Minor Fires In This City on Saturday

The second was Saturday afternoon when the floor of the tailor shop of Philip Lutzin at 29 Broadway was damaged from fire apparently caused by a small steam boiler. Saturday night the fire department was called to the Wiltwyck Coal & Ice Corporation plant at 478 Albany avenue where flames from the exhaust pipe of the Diesel engine had set fire to the wood planking used as shoring in a pit.

New Government Under Petain Is Rumored at Vichy

war laws and decrees, which may be used as a model for France.

It is said that since Petain took office the extremely active semi-Fascist Croix-de-Feu organization of Col. Francois De La Rocque has gained tremendous new strength among army, navy and air force officers.

Leopold Blond, who before the war was one of the outstanding writers for the provincial press, said in a dispatch from Vichy to Le Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble yesterday that the government's proposals were assured of a big majority Wednesday or Thursday.

Refuses Basis

According to Blond the only opposition at last Friday's sessions was that of a deputy named Margaine, who said he "refused to base the French constitution on that of totalitarian regimes."

"Xavier Vallat on the other hand," wrote Blond, "lent his support to the government proposal."

Vallat, known before last September as leader of one of the minor groups in the extreme right of the Chamber of Deputies, was quoted as saying:

"I renounce none of my ideas but the essential thing today is constitution of a great single national and social party. The German victory has been the work of German schoolmasters and the rebirth of France must be the work of French schoolmasters."

A French spokesman in Vichy was quoted as saying France planned no hostilities against Britain, despite their diplomatic break over Britain's attack on the French fleet.

A dispatch from Grenoble, however, said the navy ministry had announced two rearmored French air squadrons had joined German-Italian forces in raids on Gibraltar.

(Reuters carried a Havas story from Vichy that well-informed quarters reported the Petain government had warned British warships and planes they would be attacked if they came within 20 miles of the French coast.

(From Aruba, Netherlands West Indies, came word that the 2,400-ton French auxiliary cruiser Esterel had taken aboard shore troops and equipment and sailed from Aruba in an attempt to break through British patrols and reach Martinique.)

Two Vehicle Law Arrests On Route 28 Sunday

Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne, patrolling along Route 28 Sunday made two arrests for violations of the motor vehicle law. Richard Cirelli of White Plains, driving a 1939 Plymouth sedan towards Kingston, was arrested on a charge of having 11 persons in his car, four of them on the front seat, according to the officer. He paid a fine of $5 when arraigned before Justice Charles R. Tiller.

The second arrest was that of Laurence Zimmer of Brooklyn, who was charged with driving a Studebaker sedan with commercial license plates. He paid $5 when arraigned before Justice Wallace Shultis. It was claimed that Zimmer drove a truck belonging to a Brooklyn man, which was loaded with goods, to the Overlook Mountain House, then put the truck plates on the Studebaker and drove to Woodstock. The plates were confiscated.

Held on Assault Charge
Kenneth Tyler, 33, of Boiceville was arrested Sunday by Trooper Dunn on a charge of third degree assault. He was committed to the county jail pending a hearing before Justice North.

Drunken Driver Jailed In Default of $50 Fine

Harold R. Bowser, 45, who gave his address as 252 West 73rd street, New York city, was arrested by Corporal Baker and Trooper Klein of New Paltz Sunday on a charge of driving while intoxicated. In default of a fine of $50 imposed by Justice Frank Elliott Bowser was committed to the Ulster county jail for 50 days.

Bowser, who is a former member of the Kingston police force, got into trouble when his car crashed into the rear end of a car driven by John Sipos of Roseton. Sipos had stopped his car to allow another car to cross the road. The accident happened near the entrance to Camp St. Agnes on Route 32, not far from New Paltz.

Saugerties Woman Is Slightly Hurt in Crash

Mrs. John Costello of Saugerties, a passenger in a car driven by Charles Arold of the same place, was slightly injured Sunday afternoon, in a collision near the junction of Route 28 and the old West Hurley road.

Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg, who investigated the accident, found that the Arold car had stopped for the stop sign at the junction when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Irving Horowitz of Brooklyn.

Promoters of Beauty Use Ads, Not Ballyhoo

In the days when Ziegfeld the Great was the master mind of the New York show world, beauty contests were All-American extravaganzas and contestants paid pretty much their own expenses.

It was all hot stuff for the winner who became Miss America and hot stuff too for Ziegfeld who profited from the ballyhoo, signed up the young lady for one of his shows and then sent himself congratulatory telegrams and let them be printed in the nation's press.

Twenty years have seen a new trend and beauty show ballyhoo is no longer the vogue. The promoter pays: A current advertisement reads: "WANTED—100 young ladies for 'Miss Eastern New York' beauty and talent contest, winner to compete in National Finals, Atlantic City, for Miss America of 1940. All expenses paid, your dream of fame and fortune may come true. Enroll now."

Twenty years ago beauty was coming "out from under." Now it's no novelty, but the girls still compete. The net result is only that it's harder for the promoter.

Ulster Firemen Postpone Parade

Heavy Traffic in Phoenicia Given as Reason

Heavy summer traffic through the village of Phoenicia has caused the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association to decide not to hold the annual convention and parade until the Friday and Saturday after Labor Day in September. The annual election of officers will be held Friday evening, September 6, and the parade on Saturday afternoon, the following day.

The main road in the village forms part of the Kingston-Oneonta highway, and during the summer months auto traffic is very heavy. If a parade was held during the summer months it would tie up traffic in both directions. For that reason the officers of this association have voted to postpone the annual meeting and parade until after Labor Day.

Train Rider Has Narrow Escape

Rochester Man Gets 10 Days in County Jail

Ambrose O'Meil, 60, of Rochester, had a narrow escape from serious injury on Sunday when he attempted to steal a ride on a train on the West Shore railroad here, according to his story to Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court, when he was arrested on a charge of train riding this morning.

According to O'Meil he had come to Kingston from Rhinebeck and as he had been ordered out of town some time ago he decided to lose no time in leaving Kingston.

Near the railroad station a train was starting to pull out and he attempted to board the engine, but the train, he said, was moving too fast and he released his hold when he was being dragged and rolled over and over on the ground.

"That is when I was seen and arrested," he explained to the judge.

"The best place for you is 10 days in the county jail or you are apt to lose your life next," commented the judge, as he imposed the sentence.

Garner Refuses His Views on Convention

Washington, July 8 (AP)—Vice President Garner is as silent as President Roosevelt concerning his Democratic convention plans, although his managers have said they intend to let the Texan's name be put in nomination for the presidency.

Receiving visitors in his office during the week-end, Garner lounged in a big overstuffed chair, tapped the ashes from his cigar, and declined all political comment.

"My wife is still putting up with me and I'm happy," he said. "What more could I ask?"

Justice For a Dinner

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—Federal Judge J. D. Martin complimented his host for the "best chicken dinner I ever ate." The negro cook came forward.

"Haven't I seen you before?" the judge asked.

"Yes, suh," he replied, "I just finished a 90-day sentence."

FOUL PLAY

It was probably unnecessary to make such a suspicious mystery about the death of General Italo Balbo as the British press has done. It is better for Americans not to jump to conclusions about such things. It was a startling incident, but if anyone has evidence that Premier Mussolini had anything to do with the crash of that plane and the death of its passengers, it has not been published.

The German press "sounded off" in the same way, and in still worse taste, when the American war correspondent, Webb Miller, was killed by a train in England. The Germans insisted that he was killed by the British government, presumably in order to blame it on Germany and bring America into the war. Then there was the death of a famous German general in the Polish campaign, that was blamed on Hitler. And just lately there have been some insinuations about political responsibility for the serious injury of former Premier Paul Reynaud in France.

Obviously there is no end to this sort of sniping, when it once gets started. Heaven knows, there have been plenty of political assassinations in Europe these last few years, but why go out of the way to look for them?

THE YOUNG REFUGEES

A Gallup Poll shows this country deeply sympathetic toward the plight of children in Europe. Apparently 5,000,000 American families are willing to take refugee youngsters into their homes for the duration of the war.

But human generosity on such a scale demands organization and planning. Two things stand immediately in the way of taking to our hearths and homes even a fraction of the number of children we are eager to help. Legal red tape and rigid immigration restrictions make it hard for most of them to enter this country. There is also the problem of rescue ships to transport them.

Canada expects 5,000 child refugees to arrive during July, and plans to take others later. Many will be British boys and girls, but there will also be Dutch, Belgian and French children who sought safety in the British Isles.

The children of Europe today will be the adults of Europe tomorrow. For purely selfish reasons we ought to do as much for them as we can, to give them as much faith in decency and human kindness as possible. Without some degree of normal and happy childhood, these children may grow up embittered and hopeless, easy victims of the ideologies which menace democracy.

DECLINE OF FOREIGN PRESS

Europe, which makes so much news, gets little. Even in the one European country whose press is still reasonably free, the quantity of news is severely limited. Nine dailies of national circulation, published in London, which used to print 16 to 20 pages a day, are now down to six pages, with a prospect of shrinking soon to four. At least one paper, the Daily Worker, is already reduced to a single sheet.

This is the result of a shortage of paper. The supply has been greatly reduced by the Nazi seizure of Norway and other possible sources of newsprint. Naturally there is no coverage now of many important kinds of news hitherto printed as a matter of course. There is probably a shortage of paper, too, over most of continental Europe. But shrinkage of size in newspapers there is dictated even more by limitation of subject matter. In the countries taken over by Hitler, including France, general and trustworthy news is now almost nonexistent. Everywhere there is censorship, and in Germany itself news seems to be mainly propaganda.

So the light goes out over Europe. And only one country remains—the United States—where the news of this tragic era, in as far as it is obtainable, is fully and truly printed.

BAD NEWS FOR DIPLOMATS

Diplomacy is another field in which opportunities for the larger and freer life are shrinking. The Berlin government has informed foreign representatives in that capital that all foreign dignitaries must be withdrawn from Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg by July 15. They are not needed, because Germany has taken over those countries and handles their foreign problems itself.

This incident throws a sudden, new light upon the fate of the neighboring democracies "freed from liberty" by Nazi Germany, also the manifest destiny of many another nation in Europe and Asia as the dictators' juggernauts roll on. We are even more sorry for them than for the lessening scope of our own diplomats.

TIN THIEVES

There are other precious metals than gold and silver. Some of the metals that we have been used to calling "base" seem to be growing valuable and aristocratic. One of them is tin.

Robbers broke into the American Steel and Wire plant in Cleveland the other night, locked up the watchmen and carried off several tons of tin. It was worth $6,700, and may be worth a good deal more before long if the supply from the Dutch East Indies is shut off. There is some sense now in the old use of the word "tin" as slang for money.

Copper is another metal indispensable in countless forms, for war and industry. Fortunately we have plenty of that in the United States, far inland.

MORE WORK

The Russians, driven by the need of more war production, are going off their revolutionary six-day week and returning to the old sabbatical week of seven days. It means fewer holidays. The working day is lengthened, too.

The same tendency is seen here, and for the same reason. There must be more production. And nations will do for defense what they will not do for thrifty common sense.

Oratory is the vice of democracy, but it enables potential rebels and traitors to get things off their chests.

Defense costs a lot of money, but it's cheaper than war. Also pleasanter.

OVARY EXTRACT IN ARTHRITIS TREATMENT

As we think of arthritis—rheumatism—and remember that it is thought to be the oldest disease known to man, we may wonder why it has not been conquered as have many of the fatal diseases such as diabetes and pernicious anemia.

It is not because the cause or causes are unknown—infection of teeth and tonsils, exposure to cold and dampness, mental and physical exhaustion—but because the cure or cures are so many and so different and attacks occur despite all treatment.

Some chronic sufferers with arthritis may still be willing to try anything to get relief and others, after trying everything, are content to simply use pain killing drugs.

From time to time new methods of treating arthritis are reported with figures showing the percentage of cures with vaccines and failures. Some physicians report 60 per cent of cures and others, 10 per cent or even less. Heat in any form by speeding up the circulation of the part appears to be helpful in most cases.

A new method of cure for chronic arthritis is reported in the New England Journal of Medicine, Boston, by Drs. A. Cohen, A. W. Dubbs, and A. Myers, Philadelphia. These research workers noted the similarity of the symptoms of the menopause (change of life) with those of acute and chronic atrophic arthritis. Atrophic means the wearing or wasting away of tissue. They believed that as extract of ovary gives relief of symptoms of the menopause by supplying some ovary substance to lessen shock, that it might also help these arthritic women whose symptoms are due to a wasting away of the lining surfaces of joints.

Seventeen cases of atrophic arthritis and six "mixed" cases were treated with large doses of estrogen (ovary extract). Twelve of the patients were distinctly improved in joint symptoms, five of whom were relieved of the symptoms of menopause present at the time. Three patients noted improvement but the arthritic symptoms returned later. Seven patients noted no improvement and one said she was worse.

Twelve young arthritics without any menstrual disturbances were given the same dosage of estrogen as the older ones but there no beneficial results were observed in any of them.

These research workers believe, from the above results, that arthritis present during the menopause should receive these injections of estrogen.

A Short Circuit, Maybe
Cheney, Wyo. (P)—Jim Griffith received a letter from a Philadelphia Democratic organization urging him to organize a "Rally 'Round Roosevelt" club. Griffith is chairman of the Wyoming Republican state central committee.

The homemaker, by remembering that the bedroom primarily is a place of rest, can enhance its usefulness by harmonizing restful colors and avoiding any jarring effect in furnishings or wall coverings.

Don't think for a minute that the Democrats here don't realize this, and that they aren't mulling it over and over in their minds this very minute. That's why I can pass along that the coming campaign is going to be one of the bitterest—this country has seen. The only thing that could prevent it would be for the Democrats to name a weak sister, and hope that lightning would strike Wendell L. Willkie.

That's what the Democrats are saying among themselves. By a fluke or by the clever manipulations of Mr. Willkie or somebody, the tables have been turned and it's up to the Democrats to stop the man that Old Guard Republicans couldn't.

Just how it is to be done, is even now being worked out behind the scenes. It won't be long before the first opposition group will be fired. President Roosevelt and his administration have never been ones to sit around and see what's going to happen. Nobody has ever accused the President of being short on political strategy or long on leisure.

Exactly what turn the battle will take is almost impossible for me or even the experts to envision now. But it's going to be exciting enough so that even the kibitzer can get into a lather about it. As for the politicians: It looks like a tough summer and for some of them—an early fall.

Today in Washington

Reaction in Capital Regarding Willkie Is Interesting in View of Roosevelt's Long Popularity in Nation
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 8.—It has often been said that every now and then Washington gets out of touch with public opinion and completely misjudges the temper of the people. Such a phenomenon exists right now. The atmosphere here has been so long surcharged with New Dealism—the concept that only one man in America could possibly be popular and that anybody who didn't believe this must be a Tory or a reactionary—that it is interesting to observe the reaction here to the nomination of Wendell Willkie for the presidency.

For several days now the inner New Deal circle and its left-wing spokesmen have been trying to spread the idea that the Willkie nomination was wholly an artificial affair or that the delegates in Philadelphia were deceived by propaganda or that the galleries were packed.

But even the radical weekly, "The Nation," sometimes referred to as the New Deal's guide book, in this week's issue speaks of the "bosses of the party" being defeated by a "genuinely popular revolt." It adds:

"The high-pressure publicity campaign put on for Willkie and the sums no doubt spent behind the scenes to win him the nomination would not have been effective if utility men were still synonymous with insult, as in the thirties. In Willkie, the Republicans have a candidate who comes close to matching Mr. Roosevelt in personal affability and vigor. In a real sense Willkie was drafted. The party bosses did not want him and Wall Street did, but he was picked despite his connections rather than because of them."

It is more important to analyze why the New Dealers here have refused to be realistic about the Willkie nomination than to examine the fallacious premise on which they have begun to launch their campaign. It is a psychological factor that egotism and self-centered personality ignores the virtues of others. So it is with a political group or faction led by those who have wielded power for a considerable length of time. The mere fact that denunciation and invective have succeeded in belittling all opponents in the past is no basis for the assumption—to use Harry Hopkins' famous phrase—"that the people are dumb, stupid, ignorant and in need of a strong leader."

Such tactics may result in the worst defeat next autumn that the Democratic candidates have experienced in many years.

For it certainly will arise every Willkie enthusiast in the country to take off his coat and go to work spontaneously on his neighbors and friends only to prove to the New Dealers by votes next autumn that the messages to delegates at the Republican national convention of 1940 represented the popular will.

The theory that 15,000 persons could be hand-picked out of the mass of people who live in Philadelphia and told how to cheer and where to cheer at a convention may seem to the New Dealers an easy thing to tell their cohorts, but it is not an easy point to get over to the millions of persons who have been cheering in the movies this past week whenever the picture of Willkie has come on the screen. The remarkable demonstration for Willkie as announced he entered a moving picture house in New York city seeing 6,000 is something not readily dismissed as artificial.

Somehow or another a candidate must be strong with the people or else "the nation" would not be urging Roosevelt for a third term on the ground that "no other Democrat can hope to win the election."

If the New Dealers are out of touch with public opinion, it is also true that some Republicans here in Washington, equally out of touch with public opinion, are living in a past and bygone day. The frequently-recurring cry that "our boys must not be sent to fight on European soil" sounds hollow in the face of the fact that France has been conquered and movements of land armies have been reduced to a small area where there are plenty of soldiers, but not enough airplanes.

President Roosevelt has shown himself lately a keener judge of public sentiment on foreign issues than on domestic policies. He is watching the Republicans in Congress to see if they will become a "peace-at-any-price" party. If he is a candidate for a third term, he will try to drive a wedge between the realistic Willkie and the international affairs and that of the members of his party. This is justified strategy, especially since Herr Hitler has already come to the political rescue of the President by sending a note publicly refusing to recognize the Monroe Doctrine or even to understand its historic basis.

Mr. Roosevelt needs only to remind the country that the Senate by a vote of 80 to 0 and the House of Representatives by a vote of 380 to 8 affirmed the Monroe Doctrine within the last thirty days.

The practical question of course, is not whether we are to send our boys to Europe, but whether we are to defend the Monroe Doctrine. Maybe Herr Hitler will furnish the pretext for a crisis by some blunder in the western hemisphere, but otherwise there will be no campaign issue made out of America's attitude toward war unless the Republican "isolationists" and their brethren in certain Democratic quarters on Capitol Hill furnish the issue.

The country is far more interested in national defense preparations than in mud-slinging and wishes to learn which of the two candidates will assure a strong enough army, navy and air force at the earliest possible moment so as to keep war from coming to our shores. And inside that national defense problem is the question of organizing and uniting America by getting rid of class warfare—the constant charges and countercharges impugning the motives of honest citizens—and by removing the smoke screen of "social gains" that hide the inefficiencies of the national defense mechanism.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

With more than 300 students graduating this year from the Kingston High School it is interesting to note that in 1908 there were 40 students graduating from old Kingston Academy, while the Ulster Academy graduating class numbered 8.

With the building of the high school on Broadway, both academies were discontinued. Old Kingston Academy exercises were held in the London Opera House, now the Orpheum Theatre.

The eight members of the Ulster Academy class were Eva M. Cooper, Chauncey Davis, David H. Finley, Theodore J. T. Knecht, Anna V. Murray, May Van Aken, Jerome H. Williams and Oliver H. Yale. The first six named were the speakers at the commencement.

Dave Finley, a member of the class, served during the World War, and is now a major in the U. S. Army.

In those days at the turn of the century there was considerable athletic rivalry between Kingston and Ulster Academies and the annual baseball and football games were always a thrilling sight for nothing pleased the students of the academies more than to watch the other.

The annual football game was played as a rule on Thanksgiving Day, and it was followed by a Victory parade through the streets.

Many of the older readers of this column will have no difficulty in recalling with pleasure the days when they were students at either Kingston or Ulster Academies.

Huntington, W. Va. (AP)—When 13-year-old Betty Graves Mann plays with dolls she has 36 foreign mannequins and three "Americans" to choose from.
The natives are two Sioux Indian dolls, 75 years old, and one made entirely from cornhusks which Betty says is a centenarian. Betty's grandmother brought back from England tiny king, queen and princess dolls dressed in er-

Others are Swiss, Italian, French (two bought from a convent and dressed as nuns), Russian—and so across Europe. Betty now is collecting Mexican and Indian dolls.

F.D.R. and Farley Keep Their Secret

third term, or any discussion of the time or place for the announcement, must come from the President, he asserted.

He sidestepped nimbly every trap set for him by reporters who sought some hint of what Mr. Roosevelt had told him.

And he parried with equal skill questions designed to draw him out on the possibility that he might give up his jobs as Democratic chairman and Postmaster General and acquire an interest in the New York Yankee baseball team.

"I'll discuss any future plans I may have with regard to party activities at the Chicago convention at the Chicago convention," he said.

Farley has 38½ convention delegates pledged to him. But he would not answer an inquiry whether his name still would be submitted to the convention. Farley has been listed frequently as a third term opponent.

After talking over with the President every angle of the "present day political situation and the future of the party," Farley declared that he always had felt, and still did, that "the people of this country want to retain the Democratic party in power."

He said he had discussed with "the boss" the kind and size of platform, he hoped the convention would adopt, adding:

"Every effort will be made to conduct a dignified convention with no by-plays or frivolities of any character—a convention that will be free of all criticism."

He wants a brief platform. "The shorter the better," he said. "The people will read a short one and not a long one."

Moreover, he added with a grin, Republican papers might print a short one.

The President's most immediate concern today was with the progress of plans to double the defense program. He had ordered his appointments held to a minimum until he could finish drafting recommendations for a supplementary program which defense experts say will be in the neighborhood of $5,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt hoped to receive final estimates of defense needs from the army, navy and defense commission today and to send another request for appropriations and authorizations to Congress by mid-week.

Congressional leaders, called to the White House for their usual Monday morning conference with the President, expected to get some sort of preview of the additional armament program.

EXTRA SKILL AND EXTRA DARING MADE CLINTON FERGUSON AMERICA'S NO. 1 OUTBOARD CHAMPION

BOMBSHELL! That's his name for it. A splinter of mahogany, a bit of fabric, varnish...why, it's nothing but a shell with a motor. But when Clinton Ferguson clamps down the throttle of that motor, you've got the fastest combination in outboarding today. Speed? More than that. Speed plus—plus one man's uncanny ability to wheedle and squeeze just a few extra miles per hour out of four cylinders and a propeller. Yes, it's the extras that win—even in cigarettes.

LEAN, WIRY, 135 pounds of nerve and driving skill. Hunched in that tiny pit—one hand on the wheel, the other on the throttle—he roars across the surface in a frothing skid against time. Half in, half out of the water, Clinton Ferguson never lets up. Turns? He takes them wide open...throws himself around...with a daring equaled only by the extra skill of his steering hand. Boats, drivers—cigarettes—it's the extras that set them apart...like the extra mildness of Camels.

THE "EXTRAS" IN CAMELS MADE THEM HIS CIGARETTE

THOSE EXTRAS IN SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS SURE CLICK WITH ME

THE "EXTRAS" of costlier, slower-burning tobaccos have made Camels the No. 1 cigarette in the field. And the explanation of these extras in Camels is just as scientific as it is logical. Too-fast burning in a cigarette creates excess heat. Excess heat ruins the delicate elements of mildness and flavor. Slower burning preserves flavor and aroma...naturally gives a cooler smoke. Camels, with their costlier tobaccos, give you extras that you won't find in any other cigarette—even a slower way of burning that means extra smoking per pack (see panel at right).

EXTRA MILDNESS
EXTRA COOLNESS
EXTRA FLAVOR

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 45 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

Casual Slaughters

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY: At the Post theater Adam and Kay meet the chaplain, who has just been released from the hospital. Both realize that his amusing plight has ruined his career.

Chapter 12

SATURDAY morning we could not ride for some reason described to me simply as "inspection." I did not question it too closely. I put in the extra time at my typewriter, expecting Julia and half dreading a repetition of Friday's painful encounter. But she did not arrive until eleven o'clock, and then she did not come in, just sat in the car outside my window and honked.

I dropped what I was doing and went out to her, thankful enough for a respite.

"Come for a drive," she begged, so I got in beside her.

The car was a Chrysler convertible coupe. She drove it wide open and burning the wind. My hair would be in a thousand snarls, but I did not protest, knowing that she was running away from the thought of Jeff.

"This is Mimi's car," she said presently. "Dan gave it to her when we first came here. I can usually have it in the daytime. Mimi's mood is Dan's mood. Out of three nights a week to some stag affair and she takes her car and drives for hours by herself."

"Do you think she's happy?" I ventured.

"Who is?"

"She uttered a mirthless laugh. "Which reminds me, we're leaving tonight—beach party. You're invited. Here, I'll prove better than last night's fray, which was a bore. Oh, and wait till you see what we've got! It just happened in to see its friend Sandra, and it's too cute for words."

I saw what she meant that night. It was a small, dark, thickset man with a little mustache and a stagey sort of good looks. He bowed over my hand and murmured "Chawmed."

Then he threw back his bathrobe to display his trunk-clad form and swelled a hairy chest. We were all visibly impressed. Julia clasped her hands and gazed at him with starry eyes. Adam let his jaw sag in unpleasant resemblance to an idiot child. Gerald Beaufort inhaled until his face was scarlet and seemed about to pin his shoulders together in the back.

"The word is 'mirth,'" said Felicia Bridewell irrepressibly in my left ear.

Only Sandra, Jeff and the chaplain seemed unamused. Jeff, in fact, glowered; or at least I thought so at the time. He was so somber normally that it was difficult to tell when he was actually displeased. He peeled off his sweat shirt, rolled it into a tight ball, tossed it on the sand and marched deliberately into the lake. I should not have been surprised to see him wade out until his head was immersed, but he jackknifed suddenly and reappeared swimming with vicious strokes that seemed to reach for and clutch the far horizon.

I thought for a moment that Julia was going to follow him but with an effort that was obvious to me, at least, she turned her back to the lake and began rearranging the baskets and bottles which we had unloaded from the cars.

"Go on and swim," she said to all of us. "We won't eat for a long time yet, and I'd advise everyone to swim before they start eating. We don't want any casualties."

We had penetrated deep into the reservation for this party. Like the mossy old joke, we had turned in at the road marked OFFICIAL VEHICLES ONLY, passed the sign that read VISITORS NOT ALLOWED BEYOND THIS POINT and parked next to a SILENTLY NO ADMITTANCE. Adam had read vaguely to my questions. The sign, he said, had something to do with summer maneuvers, which were concluded; but they also preserved the reservation from casual picnickers and resultant brush fires.

hundred feet from the road was the lake, rimmed by a clean white beach as far as you could see in either direction, interrupted only, in the immediate foreground, by the wreck of an old coal barge that had been cast up to the water's edge by one of the storms that periodically convulse the Great Lakes.

Perceptibly Nervous

WE CLIMBED onto it when we had tired of swimming and sat, wet and cool and contented, swinging our legs over the shallow water that lapped at the weatherbeaten hull and sampling the contents of one of the big thermos bottles.

It was still daylight, though the sun had gone down behind us and a big moon had ballooned up out of the lake and was already high in the sky. A heavenly sense of well-being came over me. Even the two strange little men beside me seemed expressly provided for my amusement.

I don't know why the chaplain had let himself get so near to me. It must have been an oversight, for he was still perceptibly nervous.

vous in my company. He addressed most of his remarks to Sandra, on his other side who, I gathered from their conversation, was responsible for his public appearance. I heard her ask him encouragingly if he wasn't glad she had insisted on his coming, and wasn't it fun?

"Most delightful," he agreed, managing what looked too painful to be classed as a smile. His face was still pretty awful, and his hands were encased in loose white cotton gloves because, I had heard him confide to someone, of the unpleasant ailment he had to use on them. The rest of his plump little figure was dressed in a khaki shirt and khaki slacks that were too long for him and had been turned up twice at the cuff. He had, of course, not been swimming. He looked rather like a wistful, strange child who had not been accepted by the gang. I thought, under the circumstances, that his response to Sandra's question was nothing short of heroic.

I turned my attention to the man on my other side. Sandra called him Ivan, and that was all of his name that I ever knew. Julia, it is true, had dubbed him Petrushki-Skivar, and I had heard her murmuring something to Gerald about the sons of the prophet being hairy and bold. She must have known his real name, but no one was sufficiently interested to inquire.

He was gazing now out across the lake, a long amber cigarette holder clamped like a pipe between his teeth and an overdone expression of dreamy detachment in his eyes.

"Sudar not by the moon, th' inconstant moon," he declaimed suddenly in his quite phenomenal version of an English accent, and gave the yellow balloon that hung above the lake what amounted to a dirty look.

"I don't think swearing is very nice anyway, do you?" I asked him earnestly.

"I, ah, fancy Shakespeare meant it in another sense," he explained kindly. "Sandra tells me that you also write."

"You mean the Bard and I? Well, yes and no. The comparison is hardly fair. You see, Shakespeare was all right in his time—"

Warning Glance

IT TAKES two to carry on that kind of a conversation. I saw that I was making a lamentable impression and changed my tactics.

"And you—are you a Theophrastus?"

I thought the word well chosen and so, apparently, did he. He expanded.

He raised his voice a little and Sandra and the chaplain stopped talking to listen.

"All the world's a stage, and all the men and women in it merely players. They have their exits and their entrances; and one man in his time plays many parts. I have played, my parts as they came to me," he added modestly, but with an air of mystery which vaguely intrigued me. "I think I may say, however, that my vocation is more vital than treading the boards."

Perhaps he wanted to be coaxed; perhaps he merely paused to heighten the effect; perhaps he caught a warning glance from Sandra. I shall never know. Certainly he did not go on, and I had opened my lips to ask him the nature of this mysterious vocation when Sandra seized the conversation in both hands and made off with it.

"Did I tell you, Ivan, that I knew Chaplain Henry in Texas, when Mother and Father were alive? He—he was very kind."

Her voice broke and she looked volumes at the little chaplain. I thought he seemed acutely embarrassed.

"Yes," she went on more cheerfully, "when I learned that Chaplain Henry was here and would actually perform the marriage I could hardly believe my luck."

"Pleasure, I'm sure," muttered the little man awkwardly.

She smiled at him.

"I rushed right over to the hospital to make sure it was my Chaplain Henry, and you can imagine my shock when I saw him!" she smiled again, an affectionate smile. "You really must be careful, you know, not to get into any more poison oak. It's all around here."

Chaplain Henry looked over his shoulder. He seemed nervous.

"Not on the barge," I assured him.

"Juice of cursed hebenon," intoned Ivan and, flicking the butt from his cigarette holder, fell silent, gazing at the lake.

"And the wedding?" Sandra went on calmly, "is less than three weeks away. I can't have you looking like a—like a—"

She paused tactfully, but my professional enthusiasm forced me to supply the missing simile.

"Like a spoiled tomato," I finished, and laughed immediately.

"Ha, ha," said Chaplain Henry. "That's very good. Very good indeed."

"No, very bad. In fact, rotten," I said, and applauded myself with another gale of mirth.

"So bad," said Adam behind me, "that I'm going to duck you for it!"

Responsibility

The reason why so many men, especially young men, fail to become leaders is their unwillingness to pay the price of responsibility. They just won't stand the gaff of hard work, hard thinking, and hard driving. They prefer the easier way—and failure.

A small boy was trudging along dejectedly in the grip of a policeman. In his arms he carried a football. There had been a broken and trampled flowerbed.

A group of his pals stood on the street corner. He tried to keep a stiff upper lip as he passed them. One youngster—What did you do, Fred?

Small Boy (casually)—Oh nothing. They've just asked me to play for the cops.

When the hostess told her maid that her guests were late, but that she would give them a quarter of an hour's grace, she replied that she was religious but she thought "madam" was rather overdoing it.

It was a great occasion, and father looked on with an amused smile while his eldest son, aged 16, had his first shave.

After a great deal of lathering the boy picked up his new razor and began to scrape. Finally, he rinsed the soap from his chin and caressed it with his hand.

Son (murmured proudly)—That's better.

Father (handing the boy a blade)—You have forgotten to use this.

Before criticizing your wife's faults, remember it may have been those very defects which prevented her from catching a better husband.

We have all felt this way at times.

Mrs. W. F. Writes: "Six-year-old Edwin wanted to continue playing, but I told him he must go to bed."

Looking up at me, he said: "Mother, don't say 'must' to me. It makes me 'won't' all over."

The train halted for a moment at a small station. A traveler reached out of the window, called to a boy, and said:

Traveler—Here, son, is 50 cents; get me a 25 cent sandwich and one for yourself.

Just as the train started to pull out, the boy hurried up to the train window, and shouted:

Boy—Here's your quarter, mister. They only had one sandwich.

WEATHER UNCERTAIN AS ENTRIES LINE UP AT POST FOR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION RACE

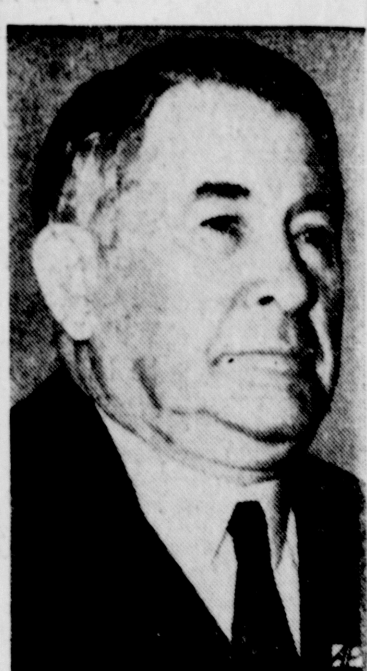

ORATORY—Keynote for the Democrats' national convention opening July 15 in Chicago will be Alabama's William E. Bankhead, House speaker, who's considered a fine orator.

ENIGMA—Big Jim Farley, hand-shaking postmaster with countless friends, is known for his loyalty to F.D.R., some secret political ambitions, and for opposition to a third term.

VETERAN—Age of Secretary of State Cordell Hull—he's 68—might cripple his chances. The Tennessee statesman has repeatedly expressed his disinterest in a political future.

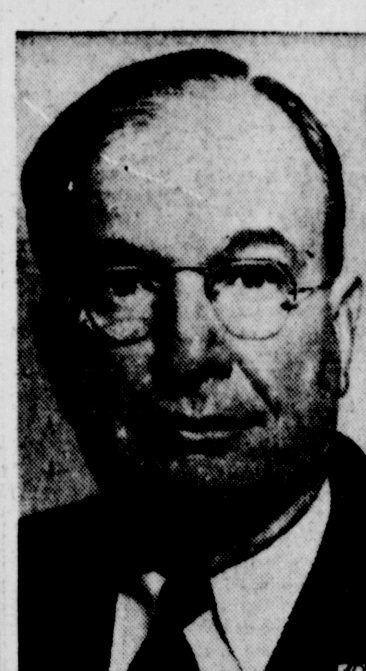

EXPERIENCED—Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who'll probably be permanent chairman of Democratic convention, gave keynote talks in 1932 and 1936.

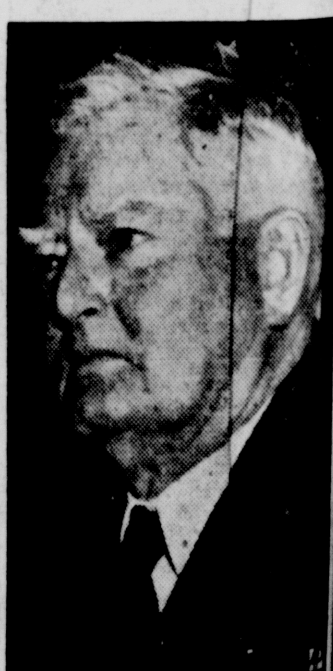

JUSTICE—If Roosevelt decides against a third campaign, and the Democrats decide to put youth in the saddle, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas might be considered. He's 41.

MENTIONED—The name of Attorney General Robert H. Jackson (above) has figured in stories about Democratic nominations. He's been mentioned as a possible vice president.

HE'LL RUN—Whether F.D.R. runs or not, Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (above) of Montana says he'll seek presidential nomination. He's advising Democrats to become a "peace party."

STRATEGIST—Although little came of an early boom for Vice President John Garner, he has influence in party councils and will probably yield power when nominee is named.

County Traffic
Heavy on Sunday

Proopers and Deputies
Patrol Area Roads

Sunday produced the first real heavy traffic of the present summer season and traffic officials were kept on the jump. On route 28 State Trooper Dunn worked the upper section of the Ashland boulevard and deputy sheriffs patrolled the lower section where several arrests were made. South of Kingston State Troopers patrolled the road and from the Highland sub-station it was reported that traffic was heavy during the afternoon and evening hours. There were no serious accidents reported along route 9-W but State Troopers made 12 arrests, principally in the town of Marlborough. The arrests were for reckless driving and failure to comply with the markings on the highway. Most of the violators were out-of-county cars from the southern section of the state and from New Jersey. Troopers met and treated a hurry home and found they were being detained by the officers while they paid a visit to a local court.

and informed quarters said the two discussed demands which Russia is expected to make on Turkey shortly. It was believed the Soviet might ask for concessions in the Dardanelles, Turkish-held key to mastery of the Black Sea. Foreign diplomats said Germany, Italy, and Russia were working together to decide Turkey's future in the post-war map of Europe. A new German mystery move into Spain—possibly to attack Britain's great Mediterranean stronghold of Gibraltar from the rear—was reported by the British radio in a broadcast.

The broadcast, picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System, said 60,000 German soldiers in plain clothes were already in Spain and that others have arrived at the Spanish frontier. Hitler's high command announced that 21,500 tons of British shipping had been sunk off Spain by German U-boats.

Little Changes In Prices Last Week,
Volume Was Down

Saturday's short session of the Stock Exchange was a fitting close to a week which has been marked by light trading and minor price changes. The volume was 131,870 shares, lightest for a year and trading was narrowest in over two years, with only 365 issues traded in. The Dow-Jones industrial closed at 121.59, up .08; rails at 26.06, up .07, and utilities at 22.57, up .10. Volume for the entire week was less than a million and a half shares and net changes from the close of the preceding Saturday were negligible, industrial's losing .28 point, rails .12 and utilities .10.

The fact that security prices continued, as they have for the past month or so, to fail to respond to steadily rising industrial production and indications that, in many lines at least, there will be further rises, is seen as almost without precedent. Discussing this situation one commentator speaks as follows of one of the causes for misgivings on the part of traders: "The scope of the defense program as already outlined implies a transformation of American life and its economy. Is the United States of necessity to become a militaristic nation and the whole world—not merely Europe—an armed camp? This is describing the possibilities of the world situation at their improbable worst, perhaps, but no doubt it describes accurately enough the nature of such mental speculation going on among us today."

From Washington comes the statement that administration circles are seriously considering repeal of special profit limitations now imposed on companies building military aircraft and naval vessels and part of all kinds. This would be when new excess profits tax is enacted and would simplify amortization of industrial plants and equipment built for national defense program.

In the opinion of President Dahlberg of the Celotex Corp. the building industry is on the threshold of the greatest period of activity ever witnessed in the United States.

CONFESSES HAMMERING TWO TO DEATH

New York, July 8 (AP)—Efforts to develop definite trends in today's stock market met with scant success.

Deals were almost as sluggish as in the sessions of last week, with transfers at the rate of approximately 300,000 shares. Near the final hour small plus signs were a shade in the majority.

Business hopes remained a sustaining influence, brokers said, but Wall Street was inclined to restrain its bullish urge pending clarification of the next European war thrust, details of the proposed excess profits tax legislation, and political developments at next week's national Democratic convention.

Stocks edging forward now and then included General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, du Pont, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Great Northern and Texas Corp. Steels were listless.

Supported in the curb were Lake Shore, Bell Aircraft and Heyden Chemical. Numerous issues in this market were unchanged.

Many Changes
In C.C.C. Program

Extensive School System
Has Been Built

During the past year many changes have been made in the C. C. C. program. Neither the boy nor his family now has to be on relief but the boy does have to be in need of employment.

While the C. C. C. is primarily a work program, an extensive school system has been built up. If the boy wants to learn cooking, he studies it right in the camp kitchen and actually learns to do it. If he wants to learn auto mechanics, he works in the camp garage under the supervision of the camp mechanic. Woodworking, stone masonry, concrete work and other such subjects are usually taught.

Enrollees who are interested in typing or office work, can study these subjects in the evenings, in camp. If they have become sufficiently expert in this type of work, there is almost always opportunity for them to get day-time experience in regular camp office work. If an enrollee has had high school training and wants to study surveying, there is usually a course in that subject in each camp. The program has recently been expanded to include radio, and where the camp does not have courses to suit the enrollee, he can in many cases be transferred to some other camp where the appropriate course is being conducted.

Recreation halls are usually fitted with pool tables, ping pong tables, radios and a library. Camp parties are frequently held and dramatics and vaudeville acts are developed among the enrollees who frequently make appearances in nearby communities. Many camps own their own sound-movie equipment and have regularly scheduled movie shows. Sports also play a big part in the recreational life of all C. C. C. camps. Baseball and softball are featured while in some camps, track and field meets are occasionally held.

Frank Swiontek, 19-year-old undertaker's assistant, is shown in Buffalo, N. Y., signing a statement in which, Acting Assistant Detective Chief Richard Mack said, he confessed hammering to death his younger brother and sister as they slept. A charge of first degree murder was placed against him.

VICTIMS OF HAMMER SLAYER

Gordon Swiontek (left), 9, and his 12-year-old sister, Teresa (right) were hammered to death as they slept in their Buffalo, N. Y., home. Acting Assistant Detective Chief Richard Mack said the youngsters' assistant, Frank, is on parole for the 1937 ax slaying of another brother, Leo.

HER CHILDREN HAMMERED TO DEATH

Mrs. Cecilia Miziolek is shown weeping in Buffalo, N. Y., after learning that her two children by a former marriage were hammered to death while they slept. Frank Swiontek, her 19-year-old son, confessed the slayings, according to Richard Mack, acting assistant detective chief. Mack asserted young Swiontek claimed his step father Peter Miziolek, goaded him into killing the two children.

Emil Mayer Makes Triple Win in Rondout Creek Regatta

College Point Man Wins Classes B and F in Fine Style

Karol and Peets Are Hit by Roving Boats; Drivers Are Released From Hospital

The only triple winner of the day, Emil Mayer, College Point, Long Island, copped the individual honors of the third annual Kingston Powerboat Association regatta Sunday afternoon on the Rondout Creek.

Riding in his Class B hydro, Mayer made the course in the time of 4:51 and captured 700 points. But that wasn't all for the speedy Long Island rider. In the Class F division, Mayer again took the spotlight by sweeping both first and second heats in fine style. The College Point shingle-driver, who was riding in his boat, N 18, defeated last year's free for all winner, Harold Kennedy, of Pearl River.

However, it wasn't Kennedy's day to repeat last year's performance. Mayer took the lead at the first turn and continued to soar around the laps with full speed ahead. Making a comeback stand on the second lap, Johnny White, of the celebrated White brothers, attempted to beat Kennedy out of the second place slot but just failed to make the grade.

Ferris Shines
In the number two slot for the day's activities was Grant Ferris, Hudson, who was riding his N 130 boat. Ferris copped 1325 points in victories in the service and racing runabouts. He made 10:88 in the service race while in the racing he finished 11:22.

George Peterman, Nyack, moved his Class A hydro to first place in this division over Ed Wulf of Baldwin, L. I. Peterman's time was 4:38. Johnny White of Poughkeepsie finished third. Along in the Class C hydro division, before he went on to make other laurels, Emil Mayer placed second in this division. Charlie Strang of Long Beach took first.

It wasn't all riding for the men yesterday afternoon. A number of the shingles upset and threw the drivers into the muddy waters. And two near-serious accidents occurred as the final events were being undertaken.

In the re-run of the Class C hydro race, Charlie Karol was rammed from the side while in action by a boatless-driver and was rushed to the Kingston Hospital. Karol wasn't seriously injured but fate played him well. The driverless boat cracked into him on the turn and from the judge's stand it was evident that Karol clutched his side when the shingle bore into him.

Joe Peets of Schuylerville had a close shave when he was rammed by a roving shingle. He was later released from Kingston Hospital without any serious effects.

The Sea Scouts, with their tent on the creek's shore, helped both of these injured drivers before the ambulance arrived on the scene. First aid was given as soon as the men were brought into the tent.

Service Runabouts
Won by Grant Ferris, Hudson; second, Art Baldwin, Freeport; third, Charlie Dossie, Baldwin. Time was 10:88.

Pick-Ups
Everything happened at once yesterday. First Charlie Karol was rammed by a roving shingle—then Joe Peets was in a crack-up. While we were waiting for the ambulance to help the men to the hospital, a spectator came up and informed us that his automobile was stolen....A great crowd attended the third annual meet and the ones in charge surely deserve the plaudits of everyone....The official boat on the other side of the creek had a lot of well-known men on board. They all had a great time in their own way....Ed Coughlin was around as judge and hoping he could get away in time to watch the Kingston Regatta play Danbury in that night game last night....Ray DuBois dispatched a few writers to the other side. It was a nice ride over but a lot better on the return trip....Captain Albrecht was on the scene again ready for action, but, nothing happened.

Emil Mayer Receives Feye Trophy

Keen Competition at Power Boat Regatta

The third annual power boat regatta in the Rondout creek yesterday afternoon brought 69 competitors to Kingston. In the above photo we find four boats fighting hard to gain a sizeable lead. The drivers are, from left to right: Edward F. Wulf of Baldwin, L. I.; George Van Voorhees, representing the local club; Gil Peterman, of Nyack and Lee Mathis of Schuylerville. This was the Class A race.

Budge and Cooke will play their usual singles exhibition match and the doubles show will pair up Budge and Luce against Norgardy and Cooke. Luce is from Newburgh who has been New England's No. 1 champ.

The matches will start at 5 o'clock and a large turnout of tennis fans in this area is expected to attend the event at the Hilly City.

Rocky for Reds

Cincinnati, (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds may have the toughest road of any of the National league pennant contenders to travel in September. The Reds are home only eight days during that final month of the season. For this reason, some observers look for Brooklyn and New York to fight it out for the pennant, since they have a better closing schedule. That is, if they're in the fight then.

Lineups Are Still in Doubt For 8th All Star Contest

American League Team Is 5-2 Favorite to Win;

Nicholson Replaces Hank Leiber

St. Louis, July 8 (AP)—They are playing the eighth rendition of the major league all-star baseball game in Sportsman's Park tomorrow but it's the first time the heroes will tangle on a diamond equally familiar to both sides.

Back in 1933 the game was started in the Chicago White Sox park as the answer to the fans' prayer and a sportswriter's dream. Fittingly enough, the dream player of all-time, Babe Ruth, smashed a home run to give the American Leaguers the first of their five victories.

Since then the leagues have alternated as hosts. Now it is the turn of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National circuit to spread the festive board before an expected 33,000 customers.

And in recent years the Cardinals have shared Sportsman's Park with their fellowtownsmen, the Browns of the American League.

Which all means that the wind currents and shadows tormenting the American Leaguers in their regularly scheduled games with the Nationals in their stopovers with the Cards—that the sun spots disturbing the fielders in the senior loop have been scanned by their rivals.

A.L. Is Favorite
With the terrain so familiar, bettors today argued that the American League contingent was a 5 to 2 favorite on its pitching and batting prowess. A pencil and paper champ discovered the Nationals have won in the even numbered years after first crashing through in 1936, but they still trail five games to two for the series.

Pittsburgh and St. Louis Cardinals stars already were on hand, having met Sunday in a twin bill and Manager Bill McKechnie, boss of the Nationals, arrived late last night with his Cincinnati contributions.

Joe Cronin, chief of the Boston Red Sox and leader of the American League's forces, will spend most of the day traveling from Washington. Starting lineups of both teams still were in doubt.

McKechnie announced that Bill Nicholson, Cub outfielder, would replace the ailing Leiber of the same club on his squad. Leiber is out with a throat infection.

It was the second change in his lineup to one for the American. George McQuinn, Browns' first baseman, may be unable to play, however.

Should McQuinn's throbbing knee keep him on the sidelines it is probable that Jimmy Fox of the Red Sox, only player to be chosen for all eight charity contests, will go the full route at the initial sack. This would be some kind of poetic justice since Fox wasn't even used as a pinch-hitter last year.

Although both Ford Frick, president of the National League, and William Harridge, who holds a similar job in the American League, asked that hurlers designated for tomorrow's contest see no service after July 4, 10 of the 16 flingers have gone to the mound since that date.

Hugh Mulcahy of the Phillies has worked twice in four days and was beaten both times. Only Cal Hubbard, the venerable southpaw of the Giants, and Bucky Walters, 11 times a victor this season by the Reds, have been idle among the tossers at McKechnie's command.

Al Milnar, Cleveland left-hander, and Tommy Bridges of Detroit, winner of the 1939 classic before a New York audience, have rested in the junior loop.

But it is an even bet that Bob Feller, the Cleveland Howitzer, will go to the mound first for the Americans with Walters as his opponent.

Cubans Trim Reds Again In Sunday Night Battle, 8 to 4

Rees Limited to 7 Hits by Cabre; O'Brien Is Losing Hurler; Loss Was 4th Straight

Carl Husta's Kingston Recreationists had their losing streak extended to four straight last night, meeting the Danbury Cubans for the second time, the Reds lost 8 to 4 in Danbury.

Tonight at 9:15 the Reds, with Charlie Neff slated to toe the plate, will attempt to regain the victory column once again by meeting the highly-touted House of David team. A few weeks ago the Bearded Beauties were scheduled to appear here, but bad weather conditions forced the contest to be canceled.

In Sunday's nocturnal battle the Cubans rocked Kingston for the second time around for the second time around with Ray Cabre hurling an effective 7-inning game. The winners punched the offerings of O'Brien, a newcomer to the Reds hurling staff, for 11 hits.

The Cubans started in the third frame with three runs and that margin looked safe until Kingston rammed back in the top of the fifth with two markers. But the fifth and eighth innings were too much for Kingston as the Cubans collected five more runs in these two sessions.

Kingston picked up single tallies in the eighth and ninth, but failed to tie the decision. In getting the victory, Cabre fanned 13 Reds and walked only one. O'Brien didn't have any strikeouts but passed 120.

Players Are Often Hit By Pitched Balls

But Baseball Holds Out Against Helmets

AP Feature Service

Baseball still holds out against helmets although players are often in the head by pitched balls. There was talk of adopting protective headgear several years ago. Mickey Cochrane was felled, nothing came of it. Bill Jurk of the Giants and Joe Med of the Dodgers (upper left) the last hit. Rookie Hal of the Dodgers was carried the field in Chicago June 1 after being struck. Here is one proposed helmet as demonstrated by Lamar Newsome after he was hit in 1939 with the Athletics.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By the Associated Press)

While big league baseball shines its shoes and goes "society" out in St. Louis for the All-Star game, a pleasing three-day hush settles over the swirling for first place in both leagues.

The next three days will give the Cincinnati Reds and the Detroit Tigers time to get a deep breath after reaching the top and it will give the Cleveland Indians and the Brooklyn Dodgers ample time to review yesterday's shortcomings that cost them the league leads.

The Reds, no strangers to the top rung, climbed there by dint of a 4-3 "gift" from the Chicago Cubs and the Dodger's double defeat. The Reds scored the winning run in the eighth on a walk, a single, Billy Herman's error that filled the bases and Morrie Aronovitch's walk to ruin Bill Lee's fine bid for his seventh victory.

Meanwhile, in Boston, the Brooks, cheered by 1,000 loyal home folk, bowed in a pair of heartbreakers, 1-0 and 2-1. Whit Wyatt lost a four-hitter in the first game when Jimmy Cooney singled home Eddie Miller. Then the Bees got away to a lead in the second game and hung on stubbornly to win 2-1 as Bill Posedel and Dick Coffman parceled out seven hits.

In the American league the Cleveland Indians kicked away the American League lead with a ninth inning blow-up in their game with the White Sox, coupled with Detroit's well earned victory over the Browns.

Young Bobby Feller and Ted Lyons pitched superbly for eight innings and then the Sox took full advantage of a wild streak and scored two runs without making a hit, to win 3-1. Lyons' 6-hitter certainly earned him the victory.

Tigers on Top
The Tiger's climbed to the top of the league and all over their St. Louis "cousins" 5-2. The victory, 10th in 12 games with the Browns's as achieved largely through Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe's five hit pitching.

The other National League change in standings saw the Pittsburgh Pirates erase a five game losing streak by sweeping a four game series with the Cards. They won yesterday by 7-6 and 4-1, to capture fifth place. Although out-hit in both games, the Bucs bunched their blows and coasted home on the power hitting of Vince DiMaggio and Maurice Van Robays.

The third place New York Giants split with the Phillies, winning the first game 6-4 with a four run first-inning outburst.

Will Play Recs Tonight

Above are Jimmy Woods and Jimmy McGloin of the House of David who will play Kingston at the stadium tonight. Miss Aldine, of the Ringling Brothers circus, will put on a balancing act before tonight's game which starts at 9:15.

(N. C.) farm. ... Bob Hoffman, ex-Southern California back (now the property of the Washington Redskins) is in Hollywood playing bit parts in westerns. ... Jimmy Dykes was the only American League manager who had a kind word for Detroit's surprising Tigers last spring. ... Art Doering, young Chicago golfer who walked away with the trans-Mississippi title, is considering a fat offer from a Tulsa oil firm and may change his address.

Take Your Choice
Some say Jack Dempsey is making a come back. ... Others say it's a come down. ... All agree it's a fine come off.

Recs and Davids Will Play at Stadium Tonight

Charlie Neff Will Hurl for Kingston; Locals Out to Snap Streak; Game at 9:15

It will be Jimmy Woods and the famous House of David at municipal stadium tonight at 9:15 o'clock against Carl Husta's Kingston Recreationists. A large turnout is expected to watch the game.

Last night in Danbury the Reds lost their fourth straight decision, and their second to the Cubans, by 8 to 4. Although the club is in a losing streak, Manager Husta is not planning any definite changes but expects to shift his batting order unless more offensive power is noted.

Neff to Pitch

Charlie Neff will be on the hill for the local club tonight with Howie Brooks, Bob Bush and Bud Swarhout on deck for relief duty. Neff has been away from the Reds for a couple of weeks and since his departure, the Kingston club has been having trouble.

With a number of new and younger players on the roster this season, the Bearded Beauties are expected to be even more colorful than in former seasons, if such a thing is possible. Of course, such mainstays as Woods, Battle, Shadowen, Watson, Swaney and the other are back with the club again.

Playing in Flatbush Friday, the Bearded Beauties took a 6 to 5 loss at the hands of the powerful Bushwicks. In that game Leonard and Helixon, two newcomers, stood out on the offensive with a couple of hits.

After tonight's game with the Davids, the Reds play another nocturnal clash Wednesday against Charlie Terpening's Newburgh Reds. It will be a home and home series. Either Bob Bush or Howie Brooks will be the starting pitcher in this contest.

Kingston will again use its usual lineup in the game tonight. Jack Schatzel, "Red" McLean, Chappie VanDerzee, Andy Celuch will make up the infield patrol while Tommy Maines, Vince Smedes and Bill Thomas will be on the picket line. Neff and George Zadany will make up the battery.

Following are the tentative lineups:

Helixon, rf. Thomas, rf.

Low Jenkins Puts On Poundage for Lightweight Match

Has to Scale 134 for Battle With Henry Armstrong July 17 at Polo Grounds

Ferndale, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—The Texas thin man is being fattened up—but, stranger, it's not for the kill.

That is to say, Low Jenkins, who won the lightweight championship as little more than an overgrown featherweight, now is growing up to the lightweight limit. Then, to keep the whole thing consistent, he'll turn right around and tackle the welterweight boss, Henry Armstrong, in the Polo Grounds a week from Wednesday.

Now, don't get the idea the Sweetwater swatter, who belted Lou Ambers out in three rounds a couple of months back, is turning into another Galento. You can count his ribs with the naked eye yet, and he still would have little trouble sliding through a picket fence if he turned sideways.

But Low has put on several pounds since he started his training licks up at Grossinger's Lake for the Armstrong affair, and Manager Hymie Caplin tells you, with insistent gestures of both left and right arms, that he'll positively be 134 or more when he goes against the little dark dynamo next week.

Apparently even Jenkins realizes he needs the weight this time. Jenkins was only 132 as last January, was an even 130 in stopping Chino Alvarez.

Better buy NOW-

And get Top Value for your Money

IT'S pretty conclusive proof of a real I value when more people than ever before buy a certain make of car in a single year.

That is true of this 1940 Buick.

It's pretty good proof of value when a higher percentage of all new-car buyers selects that car after looking the field over.

That is also true of this 1940 Buick.

So on sheer value, it should be clear that right now, "Best buy's Buick"—the question we'd like to ask is: Isn't this also the best time to buy?

Isn't this the smart time to put yourself behind a brand-new power plant, husky, thrifty, thrilling—and smoother than ever?

Isn't this a smart time to get more room—up-to-date controls—sure, soft brakes—new rubber—springing that never needs lubrication—truly modern features (Buick has no less than six dozen)—months on months of reliable, trouble-free, low-cost, stay-out-of-the-shop service?

The Buick SPECIAL 4-door touring sedan $996*

All things considered, we think it is. Especially so when you consider current low prices.

It won't cost a cent to try a Buick, get the low delivered prices and have your present car appraised. Hadn't you better see your Buick dealer now—and do just that?

Buick prices begin at $895

for Business Coupe—Sedan prices start at $955—

*delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

The bride, who was gowned in mist blue and wore a corsage of white roses, was attended as maid of honor by Miss Katherine Ahern of Brooklyn. She was dressed in dusty rose and wore a corsage of yellow roses. Andrew T. Gilday of this city was the brother's best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for the immediate families.

Berberich-O'Dea

New Paltz, July 8.—A large wedding took place in St. Joseph's Church at noon Tuesday, July 2, when Miss Rosalie Marguerite O'Dea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Dea of Brooklyn and Gardner was united in marriage to Charles Wannerstrom Berberich, son of Mr. Frank J. Berberich of Woodhaven, Queens. The Rev. Christopher McCann officiated. The couple received the apostolic blessing of Pope Pius XII.

Miss Betty O'Dea, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Mary Mae Donaghy of Brooklyn was bridesmaid. Frank J. Berberich was best man for his brother, and two other brothers, William and Joseph Berberich, and Joseph and John O'Dea, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The bride's dress was of white mousseline de soie, trimmed with princess lace. A full veil was fastened to a cap of the lace and she carried a prayer book with a marker of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. The attendants wore petal pink gowns of mousseline de soie, leghorn hats, and carried pink and blue delphiniums. The church was decorated with roses and white gladioli. A reception was held at the O'Dea summer home in Gardner. Mr. and Mrs. Berberich will live at Briarwood, L. I.

Poise Never Leaves You
If You Know Etiquette

Meet Petting Problem Tactfully

How do your manners stand the test of little emergencies? When a new admirer makes petting overtures in the family parlor, can you evade the issue smoothly, leave him thinking "There's a swell girl?"

Here's a tip. Before matters get to a point where you must bluntly refuse a kiss and hurt his feelings, suggest a lively parlor game. The plea for a goodnight kiss, too, can be pleasantly answered with "Not tonight."

It's the girl with delightful manners, not the easy-to-kiss type, who wins out with men in the long run. At a dance, remember the man is the one to say "excuse me" for missteps. And it's up to him to say "thank you" for a dance; you reply "I enjoyed it, too."

In the movies show your poise by going ahead of your beau when the usher escorts you to your places. You go out first, also, unless the aisles are crowded.

What to do when you must refuse a date but would like another invitation? Say "Not Thursday, Bill, but any time next week."

Be sure of the right thing on all occasions. Our 32-page booklet gives etiquette for dances, dates, games and theatres; for traveling, entertaining, visiting and motoring.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR YOUNG MODERNS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Smallpox Prevention Also May Be Obtained

Another in the series of free diphtheria clinics will be held by Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, at the city hall on Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock. Dr. Sanford is especially anxious that all children in the city five years and under in age be immunized against diphtheria.

There has not been a diphtheria case in Kingston in the past seven years, and for that reason it is urged that parents whose children have not been immunized bring them to the clinic tomorrow. When desired children will also be vaccinated against smallpox.

PROBLEM OF BLACK'S INTRUSION AT HER WEDDING WORRIES BRIDE WHO APPEALS TO EMILY POST

But the Black is Only Sleeve Edging on Maid of Honor's Gown, So It Doesn't Really Come Under Tabu

The prejudice against a woman's wearing black at a wedding could not ordinarily go so far as to include a small amount of black lace used as a trimming. Even so, this question becomes a problem as it is described by the bride-to-be in the following letter:

"The dress my maid of honor has set her heart on wearing at the wedding is lovely. I admit, it is of pale blue marquisette, and the blue is exactly what we had intended, but I was terribly taken aback when I saw that the dress was trimmed with an edging of fine black lace, around each of the short puffed sleeves, and also around the bottom of the full long skirt. She tells me that the saleswoman at the very smart shop where the dress was bought suggested black lace mitts to go with the black trimming. I'm sick about this intrusion of black, because I have always understood that black on a feminine member of the wedding party was bad luck. I know this must be a superstition but one hates deliberately to flaunt an omen of misfortune, no matter how unreasonable this may be. This girl is my only attendant and I know this dress is exactly what she wants for wear on other occasions after the wedding day."

To this I can truthfully answer that while the prejudice against black derives from the somberness of mourning, which is naturally saddening to the gaiety of a wedding, this could hardly be said of the small amount of transparent edging that you describe. If you like the dress otherwise, then it will, in my opinion, be all right. Of course if the lace were wide or heavy, that would be unsuitable.

Expressing Thanks

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been receiving treatments at a hospital by a young intern and I really believe he has done me lasting good. I have not felt so well in years. This young doctor is going to join a hospital in another city and soon leaves here for good. I should like very much to give him something more than the thanks I have already expressed. Could this be a book, and if so, what book, or what else do you suggest?

Answer: Thanking him again is really showing appreciation enough. There is no impropriety in giving him a book if you happen to know of a certain book that he wants. Otherwise, it is always a risk to buy a book because a book that does not interest is a useless gift. An extra clinical thermometer or a fountain pen or a pencil would be about as useful as anything you could choose, if you have made up your mind to buy him something.

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Outdoor Summer Manners". Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Boy Scout News

The opening day of the Ulster-Greene Council Boy Scout Camp season was highlighted with some of the finest camping weather of the year. Approximately 40 Scouts were in camp to enjoy the facilities of one of the best set-ups for the past 10 years. Many innovations this year will contribute toward giving the Scouts more fun, better Scoutcraft and a chance to develop real leadership qualities.

The mess tent has a new, solid wood floor throughout its entire length. The staff has constructed a new, larger float. The dock has been lengthened by eight feet. Coach Sylvester, waterfront director, has worked out a project method on the waterfront. This method includes such new phases as a "marathon swim" to the New York World's Fair, a progressive swim club and many new games.

Perhaps the greatest innovation is that of the introduction of a troop camping program instead of the old type of mass camping. This means that each boy is a member of a troop camp and a patrol instead of being a member of a unit. All activities will operate on a troop and patrol basis. The scout executive and the camp director have worked out a program of troop camping which they feel will give each Scout the very best time of his life and will enhance his opportunity to develop his abilities along those lines in which he finds his greatest interest.

The Scouts may expect to see many familiar faces among the staff as all the senior and many of the junior officers returned to their positions. This year's staff comprises the following men: Howard Mosher, camp director; Edward Sylvester, waterfront director; Wayne Wiseman, chef (14th year); George Otis, Scoutmaster Troop 1; Bernard Mizel, assistant Scoutmaster Troop 1; Nelson Keables, Scoutmaster Troop 2; George Englert, assistant Scoutmaster Troop 2; Cliff Van Valkenburgh, Scoutmaster Troop 3; Robert Short, assistant Scoutmaster Troop 3; Gordon Taylor, quartermaster kitchen; John McConnell, quartermaster kitchen.

The following boys were in camp for the first week: Robert Tremper, Joseph Scholar, David Lane, John Robinson, Donald Dumm, John Schultis, Francis Stern, John Doyle, Carlin Englert, Clinton Abrams, John Ruskak, Albert Ruskak, Clayton Barley, Robert Millard, George Glasier, Robert Souers, Allen Gildersleeve, Robert Matthews, Arthur Souers, Robert Merritt, Herbert Wells, Robert Adsit, Lester Davis, Harold Eisle, Arthur Rother, Norman North, Leonard Lang.

There are still a few openings for Scouts who wish to register for camp. Those boys desiring to register should contact R. Gardner Burns, at 277 Fair street, Kingston, or Howard Mosher at Camp Half Moon, Cairo.

Yesterday's remarks amplified the Saturday comment.

Taking the specific instance of territories in the western hemisphere which belongs to nations opposing Germany, Early gave this as the President's thought:

If Germany laid claim to French, British or Dutch possessions in the Americas, the United States would make no effort to take them. Instead, all the American nations would be asked to decide whether they should be placed under a mandate or held in trust until they could be returned to the present owners.

In the same way, Early said, the United States government believes that all Asiatic countries should confer in the disposition of French Indo-China, and that a similar method should be followed in handling territorial problems of Europe.

"Let all of them settle their disputes in Asia and in Europe," Early concluded, "and let all of the Americas settle the question of disposition, administration and supervision of such islands or other territorial possessions which belonged to nations conquered by Germany and which lie properly within this hemisphere."

(At Chungking, Chinese government quarters said they were "stunned" by the suggestion that Asia and Europe each apply principles of the Monroe Doctrine to its own territories. The Chinese foreign office declined comment, but the Chungking press described it as "a complete reversal of American foreign policy.")

Here's what's happened to Gulf Gasolines shown in four simple pictures

There is a scientific test, employed by us and by many of our competitors, that is used to determine the anti-knock value of a motor fuel. According to that test, the figure above represents the old GOOD GULF—famous as one of the finest regular gasolines in America!

But look at the NEW GOOD GULF! This is a fair comparative measurement of the tremendous improvement in this great gasoline. GOOD GULF is now enormously improved without a penny's added cost to you... will give superb performance in your modern, high-compression engine.

An equally sensational improvement has been made in GULF NO-NOX. This figure shows the rating of the old NO-NOX, then one of the super-fuels of its day and KNOCKPROOF under all normal driving conditions.

Now look at the NEW NO-NOX! Tremendously better than even the old NO-NOX... and far, far ahead of any regular gasoline sold anywhere in America today! NO REGULAR GASOLINE—NOT ONE—CAN COMPARE WITH GULF NO-NOX!

Better try these Better Fuels!
